I’m Just A Man
Hank Williams Jr

Intro - D

```
D                                   G
I'm just a man, I breath and I bleed
              A7                              D
Yes, I got feelings - I can hear and I can see
                                                      G
And you are the lady - that brings them out of me
                    A7                          D
Making me feel special - aw that's your specialty

                              G                     D
'Cause you let me be me - and I let you be you
                              A7                              D
Hey, don't that sound so easy? - But that is so hard to do
                                  G                       D
Some things make me feel sad - I feel like I could cry
                        A7                              D
Feeling you next to me - aw that makes me feel alright
```

Break - D-G-A7-D

```
                    G                             D
I'm not made of steel - and I'm not made of stone
                   A7                             D
I'm not a super hero - I'm made of flesh and bone
```

Repeat 1st verse
