

Don't That Sound Like Heaven

Terry Evans

Drop D Tuning (optional)

Intro - D-C-G-A7-D .. C-G-D

There's a window into heaven - I can close my eyes and see
Where there are no earthly struggles - and the soul there is set free
Where the deaf and dumb are shouting - 'cause the blind can finally see
Those crippled legs are dancin - across that crystal sea

Now there's a special place in heaven - where those unborn babies play
And they're rocked in arms by mamas - whose chance had slipped away
All those unwanted children - can say, "My daddy's He's the King"
And there's smiles on all their faces - as they spin around and sing

"Now don't that sound like heaven? - Don't that sound like home?
Where the Son of God is reigning -- and those tears are finally gone
Now don't that sound like heaven? - Don't that sound like home?
Darkness there is overtaken ----- by the light that's always on."

The price of heaven is expensive - but don't you worry about the cost
It was paid in full by Jesus - when He hung upon the cross
And all the things that He promised - will be there just like He said
As an eternal reminder - of the precious blood He shed
