Drop D tuning - Intro -- D-C-G-D-C-G-D

My grandmother owned a nightclub on the Arkansas-Oklahoma line
Mama put me on a greyhound, & I went to stay with her in the summertime
I'd box up those empty long necks and stack'em in the back & make a hand
Then at night she'd let me sneak out of the kitchen and sit in with the band

Yes I have sacked some quarterbacks
Broke my share of bones along the way
I knew it wouldn't last forever, semi-pro always means semi-paid
I started climbin' drillin' rig, I'm oil field trash and proud as I can be
Then I took my songs and guitar and sang'em to a man from Tennessee

I've played every beer joint tavern from New York city out to Pasadena
Every corn dog fair and rodeo and sold out every basketball arena
I like to get down with my boys in Afghanistan and Baghdad city too
I am a red, white and blue blood graduate of honkytonk U

A star can't burn forever & the brightest ones will someday lose their shine
But the glass wont ever be half empty in my optimistic mind
I'll still have a song to sing and a band to turn it up and play it loud
