Well I ain't never been an angel - I ain't never been called a saint

Yeah, I've decorated every bar in town - With a big red coat of paint

But good thing I had a good raisin' - For all the Hell I've raised since then

When that roll is called up yonder - I know they're gonna let me in

D G D
'Cause Jesus got a tight grip - on my soul - and he ain't letting go - he ain't letting go

The Devil reaches out but he can't grab hold - 'Cause Jesus got a tight grip on my soul
And he ain't letting go - he ain't letting go - might have a little rust on my halo
Bm A G
But when I'm gone I know where I'll go - 'cause Jesus got a tight grip on my soul

Now I've been a little more cold beer - Than holy water, it's true

More Saturday night on an old bar stool than a Sunday morning pew

But even old Hank Williams - Finally saw the light

And, oh hallelujah, I have too and it ain't just the neon kind
