Intro – Bm-G-D

D G D
By the banks of the river - where the waters run cold
Bm G D
And the wild birds all wabble - their strange sounding soul
Bm G D
By the banks of the river - where the willows grow old
G D Bm G D
It was there I first listened - to the lies you told

D G D
Now I lie here each night - all alone and I weep
Bm G D
And nothing is worse - than a night without sleep
Bm G D
The letters you wrote me - they were written in shame
G D Bm G D
But I know that your conscience - still echo's my name

D G D
Now If the ladies were blackbirds - and the ladies were bushes
Bm G D
I'd lie there for hours - in the cold rainy marshes
Bm G D
If the ladies were squirrel's - with big bushy tails
G D
I'd would fill up my shotgun - with rock salt and nails
G D Bm G D
I'd fill up my shotgun - with rock salt and nails
