

The Liar

Tab Chords And Lyrics

By Traditional Irish

Intro - G-D-G

I was born about ten thousand years ago
In Bellmullet in the County of Mayo
It was me that chased the vermin, while St. Patrick preached the sermon
And I'll whoop the man that says it isn't so

Singing rightful too-ra-laddie too-ra-lee
There is no one who can tell a lie like me
You can search until you tire, you won't find a bigger liar
I've been lying since the dawn of history

I saw Eve pickin' apples off a tree
She came over and she offered one to me
Well I said no thank you madam, you can try your luck with Adam
I'm going home to have some fish and chips and tea."

Ch

Well I saw Delilah cuttin' Samson's hair
She snipped away until his head was bare
Well he tried to run away, but she married him next day
And they opened a barber shop in Clare

Break – G-D-D7-G-G7-C-G-D-D7-G

It was during World War II I met them all
There was Churchill , Roosevelt and De Gaulle
Then one day I nearly fainted, I was having my house painted
There was Hitler hanging paper in the hall

Ch x 2

I've been lying since the dawn of history
