

The Song Remembers When

Trish Yearwood

Original key = capo 3rd fret

Drop D Tuning (optional)

Intro - D-G-D-G-D

A7sus

I was standing at the counter - I was waitin' for the change -

D

When I heard that old familiar music start

A7sus

It was like a lighted match - had been tossed into my soul

D

It was like a dam had broken in my heart

G

After taking every detour - gettin' lost and losin' track

D/Gb

So that even if I wanted - I could not find my way back

G

After drivin' out the memory - of the way things might have been

Em                      A7sus                      A7                      D                      G

After I'd forgotten all about us - the song remembers when

A7sus

We were rollin' through the Rockies - we were up above the clouds

D

When a station out of Jackson played that song

A7sus

And it seemed to fit the moment - and the moment seemed to freeze

D

When we turned the music up and sang along

G

And there was a God in Heaven - and the world made perfect sense

D/Gb

We were young and were in love - and we were easy to convince

G

We were headed straight for Eden - it was just around the bend

Em

A7sus

D

And though I had forgotten all about it - the song remembers when

G

Bm

I guess something must've happened - and we must've said goodbye

E A7
And my heart must have been broken - though I can't recall just why
D G D G
The song remembers when

A7sus
Well for all the miles between us - and for all the time that's passed
D
You would think I haven't gotten very far

A7sus
And I hope my hasty heart - will forgive me just this once
D
If I stop to wonder how on earth you are

G
But that's just a lot of water - underneath the bridge I've burned
D/Gb
And there's no use in back tracking - around corners I have turned

G
Still I guess some things we bury - are just bound to rise again

Em A7sus A7 D
And even if the whole world had forgotten - the song remembers when

A7sus A7 D G D G D
Yeah even if the whole world has forgotten - The song remembers when
